

Marissa K. Schoemer

PRINCIPAL

Marissa has been dedicated entirely on helping her clients move through the change process and then use that change adaptability to increase their competitive advantage since 2006. She delivers, facilitates and supports VisionQuest's service offerings.

Marissa is a dynamic presenter who brings both energy and insight to the learning experience. She has the ability to engage various personality styles and empowers participants to increase accountability that will positively affect behavioral change to reach new levels of personal and professional growth.

In the past, Marissa gained over six years experience in the private sector where she coordinated a research laboratory. This allowed her attention to detail, problem-solving skills, presentation acumen, and expertise in experimentation shine as her laboratory received significant funding increases. She also oversaw the quality control process for a major beverage company, further enhancing her ability to streamline procedures and build effective, cohesive teams.

Marissa holds Bachelors degrees in Microbiology and Medical Technology, and an M.Ed in Curriculum and Instruction. She is also certified in The New Reality™, VisionQuest's main tactical intervention and Better Buyer Relationships™, a consultative selling program.

When she is not training, you will find Marissa spending time with her family outdoors — on the tennis court, golf course, biking, or skiing.
