

DAVID M. SCHOEMER

PRINCIPAL

David holds Masters Degrees in both Psychology and Counseling from Central Michigan University and Eastern Michigan University respectively. He earned a Bachelors degree in Psychology from Michigan State University and an Ed.S. from Central Michigan University.

During his more than twenty-five years of experience in educational psychology, David worked with students and faculty on myriad behavioral change issues, and addressed emotional disabilities as a consultant. He established the Teacher Assistance Team process for Clarkson Schools and worked as a trainer for the California Demonstration Center System, the Precision Teaching Project, and the Crisis Prevention Institute. Before coming to VisionQuest, David developed content and training for the S.T.A.R.T Grant.

David uses his experience as a psychologist to solve problems and develop teaming for clients within the framework of The New Reality. Clients also benefit from his expertise in identifying, assessing and resolving the many personality-driven and fundamentally human issues that arise during times of change, as well as his expert collaboration and consulting skills.

An accomplished and dynamic public speaker, David has presented at conferences and training events across the country.

David and his wife live in Ortonville, Michigan.
